

SITELINES

February 5, 2010

RE: Corey Jaggie

To Whom It May Concern:

My company has been contracting plumbing work with Corey Jaggie for the past few years. My professional experience to date with Corey has been a positive one. We have worked on several mid size projects in the city that Corey provided his plumbing services on.

When contracting a project with Corey, I know that the project is going to receive his full attention to detail and also know that the project will be completed in an efficient professional manner and the end result will be a plumbing system that looks and functions as expected.

I look forward to my companies continued relationship with Corey and would recommend his services to anyone that is looking for a responsible and reliable plumber.

Best regards...

Vince Winkelmann
Vice President
Sitelines, Inc.

